Art Rejections:

- 1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
  - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 2. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).
- 3. Claims 1-13 and 16-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Liles et al U.S. pat. No. 5,880,731 in view of a patent abstract publication KR2002003533A, Byun et al, hereafter Byun.

Per claims 1-6 and 18,  $\underline{\text{Liles}}$  discloses a system and method for enabling graphically expressive messaging service comprising:

Application/Control Number: 10/058,545

Art Unit: 2154

- a) a storage for storing a plurality of characters, each character having a set of images corresponding to a plurality of moods (see figure 3 and col 6, lines 35-49),
- b) a messaging/chatting server operative to present a user interface facilitating composition of a graphically expressive message including:
- i) allowing user to select a character and a mood for the message (col 6, lines 50-67), and
- ii) allowing user to input text and identify a recipient (col 10, lines 2-4),
- iii) means for transmitting the graphically expressive message to the recipient (see col 5, lines 40-42).

Liles does not teach providing graphically expressive messaging service to mobile user. Byun teaches providing such messaging service to mobile user (see Byun's abstract).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Liles to provide messaging services to any type of users including mobile users because it would have further increased the utility of Liles's messaging service.

Per claims 7-9, Liles does not explicitly teach maintaining user's account/profile in the server. An official notice is taken that user's account/profile is usually maintained in such messaging service in order to properly provide services to the users.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to maintaining user's account/profile in Liles' message server because it would have enabled providing messaging services to the users.

Per claims 10-11, Liles teaches storing avatar component as retrivable data file (see col 7, lines 43-45). It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to utilize any conventional file system to identify and retrieve the avatar files.

Per claims 12-13, Liles teaches providing user interface for displaying avatars associated with chat participants ( $\underline{\text{see}}$   $\underline{\text{col } 13, \text{ lines } 50-57}$ ).

Per claims 16-17, Liles teaches allowing user to modify predefined avatars and uploading the modified avatars to the server for subsequent use (see col 9, lines 2-9).

Claims 19-22 are similar in scope as that of claims 1-13 and 16-18.

Allowable Subject Matter:

4. Claims 14-15 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

5. Claim 23-33 is allowed over prior art of record.
